The FLY2WORK Pilot begins

The testing of the Fly2Work Handbook and tools to improve the onboarding process has begun.

The pilot intends to test and evaluate the tools and methods developed for an improved onboarding process, tailored to young people. From August to November, in Portugal, Spain, France and Italy employers and young employees will have the opportunity to use and validate the material developed.

Learn how to fly to work: the online digital course

The partnership started the development of an open-access web-based course tailored to the participation of many users. It aims to deliver interactive and practical materials to capacitate companies, public institutions, and NGOs on the Fly2Work methods and tools. The course will be uploaded in the official website of the project <https://fly2work.eu/>.

From the implementation of blended learning on onboarding to the digital tools that can be used, the course will improve organizations and prepare young people for the adventure of finding a job.
